Hong Kong's favourite sprinter will be gunning for a third KrisFlyer in a row. Apart from a third place in the HKG1 Chairman's Sprint Prize (1200m) in February, his form has gone pear-shaped this term. A shadow of himself at his last run in the HKG2 Sprint Cup (1200m), when a beaten horse a long way out. Loves Kranji, though. The rising nine's best years may be over, but he is still a class act and cannot be entirely ruled out. Prefers a good track.

Hong Kong's new sprint kingpin. Badly poleaxed in the lead-up to the Group 1 Longines Hong Kong Sprint (1200m), the Group 2 Jockey Club Sprint (1200m) in November to run last, he duly made amends with a sparkling all-the-way win in the Sprint itself. Went to Japan to contest the Grade 1 Takamatsunomiya Kinen (1200m) on March 29 and again reigned supreme, going left-handed as well. Not raced since, but has trialled in impeccable order at Sha Tin. Prefers to be on top of the ground. Can be a hard horse to ride, but jockey Zac Purton knows his every quirk. Will be the horse to beat.

Hong Kong globetrotter who won the Group 3 Mahab Al Shimaal (1200m) on Tapeta in Dubai and was runner-up to Sterling City in the Group 1 Dubai Golden Shaheen (1200m) in 2014 before franking that form with a third place this year. Scored a history-making victory last October in the Grade 1 Santa Anita Sprint Championship (1200m) on dirt. Not just a dirt specialist, as he does have one win over turf in Hong Kong. Must be respected on recent form. A bit of give would suit him.

Polytrack specialist who would probably have preferred the KrisFlyer to be run on the alternative track. Not raced since his creditable fourth in the Group 1 Dubai Golden Shaheen (1200m) in March. Well exposed to international contests having won in Dubai and Korea, but on synthetic tracks. Trialled very well and raced closer than usual last week, being probably fresh from the long break. Will be outpaced early if they go crazy in front, just like in last year's KrisFlyer. Just a place chance on best form.

Reigning Singapore champion sprinter who has been aimed at this race again this year. Will try and make amends from last year's run when he went ballistic at the barriers, but still ran third to Lucky Nine. Spot-on following an ideal prep; win in Group 3 Kranji Sprint (1200m) and close second in Group 1 Lion City Cup (1200m). Best when ridden handy but can sometimes overrace if it is not a true run race. Tends to win by small margins but never shirks a fight. Good to soft suits. Will be right in the mix.

Former Melbourne bread-and-butter sort who has improved by leaps and bounds in Singapore. Reeled off five-in-a-row at first five starts and was the first local across the line when second to Lucky Nine in last year's KrisFlyer. Scored two 1400m wins at Group 2 and 3 level, but then bled after one race in November. Resumed with a huge run when third first-up in Lion City Cup (1200m). Prefers a good track. Bombproof most of the time. Will be thereabouts when whips are cracking.

Speedy sprinter-miler who is hard to run down whenever he gets his own way in front. Unplaced at last couple of starts but he had excuses. Did not quite handle the Polytrack two runs back and lost a shoe at his last outing. Has not quite measured up to the best sprinters, though. Needs to be on top of the ground and barrier draw critical. Looks tested in this, but can run a cheeky race if he gets a soft lead.

Former stakes winner in England before he relocated to the Middle-East in 2013, capturing a 1000m race over the Meydan straight in January. Tried to cement that form in the Group 1 Al Quoz Sprint (1000m) but finished down the course, never looking likely to threaten the winner Sole Power. On-pace runner who is best suited travelling in the first half of the field before launching inside last 400m. Looks safely held against such tough opposition.

Only three-year-old in the field and only filly. Not much of her but her bulldog qualities have seen her fight off her peers as a two-year-old and later on as a three-year-old. Never worse than second, including six wins in 11 starts until a close fourth at her last start, which was in open company in the Group 1 Lion City Cup, probably her best run to-date. Races on the speed and will be advantaged by a low draw. Though KrisFlyer had not been her target from the outset, she fully deserves her place in the barriers. Place chance.
